Developing a more impactful personal development and wellbeing curriculum

Designed for school leaders, this new training session will support participants in strengthening their Personal Development and Wellbeing (PD&W) provision to ensure it is effectively tailored to meet the needs of all learners, particularly those who are most vulnerable.

The session is led by a School Improvement Partner (SIP) who is a serving Ofsted team inspector, with input from a Hampshire headteacher with recent experience of inspection under the current framework.

By the end of the session, attendees will leave with:

- a sharper understanding of 'strong' PD&W provision and its role in improving outcomes for all groups of pupils
- clear priorities for development within their own school context
- practical, evidence informed strategies to enhance the curriculum offer
- greater confidence in ensuring provision is inclusive, responsive and impactful for all pupils

This training is particularly suited to senior leaders and teachers with strategic responsibility for PD&W. Aimed at schools across both B&D and H&R districts. The session is capped to 20 attendees.

Led by Alister Moses (SIP), with input from Diane Charman B&D Headteacher
