

Opening doors by sharing great practice: A curriculum for now

A half day conference for Headteachers and Senior Leaders
January 18, 2023

With presentations by HMIs: Lee Selby and Aimee Floyd

This conference seeks to build on the success of the recent half day project-sharing events by sharing the great work of schools across Hampshire and the Isle of Wight with the intention of helping those in attendance learn from and be inspired by the success of others.

The conference will have two keynote presentations:

- First Keynote presentation: Delivered by two serving HMIs, exploring a ‘curriculum for now’, balancing the development of skills, knowledge and enjoyment as well as being valued by all pupils.
- Second Keynote presentation: Investigate adaptive teaching, and focus on making learning accessible as well as thrilling to all. This will support thinking in our application of the curriculum, as well as skilling and empowering our middle leaders and teachers.

Each delegate will then be able to select two breakout sessions, facilitated by School Leaders across the county, as this event promotes the goal of sharing great practice in our schools.

These sessions will include curriculum leadership and specific topics such as PSHE and reading. We will discuss your selections with you closer to the conference.
