

Hampshire and IOW PDL Conference

for Primary and Secondary Practitioners

Aim High – an aspirational future for ALL our children

With statutory RSHE/RHE becoming embedded into school's curriculum, many settings are beginning to understand the power of the subject to support the emotional wellbeing and development of young people.

The focus of this year's PDL conference is to explore the power of the curriculum and ethos in a school in promoting the mental health and wellbeing of our children and how to build aspiration and resilience through the PDL curriculum with a particular focus on our vulnerable communities.

Keynotes

Manisha Tailor

Manisha is an experienced primary school practitioner and former Deputy Head Teacher. She is company director of Swaggarlicious Ltd where she provides mental health and diversity education and works full time at a professional football club overseeing coaching. She will be talking about building aspiration and resilience within diverse communities.

Robyn Steward

Robyn Steward is autistic and has spent over 15 years training professionals about Autism. She has spoken all over the world about challenges she has encountered through her education. We are really pleased that she has agreed to join us and talk about practical strategies to support children with autism as well the requirement to understand each individual person.

Workshops:

The Aspirations Fallacy: Enabling Disadvantaged CYP to succeed – Tor Flynn (HIAS Inspector/ Adviser for Tackling Education Disadvantage)
Many school leaders cite 'low aspirations' as a reason for disadvantaged pupils' underachievement. However, research shows that disadvantaged pupils and their families already have high aspirations. This workshop aims to explore this fallacy and support school leaders in ensuring high aspirations become a reality.

The Role of PE in Promoting Positive Mental Health and Wellbeing - Jodie Bascombe (Hampshire PE Development Manager) and Dr Vicky Randall (University of Winchester). PE is being used to drive the mental health and wellbeing agenda more and more in schools. One of the challenges in designing our PE curriculum is to ensure that all students are engaged and that we use the opportunities within our lessons to teach life skills and how to be resilient and respectful individuals.

Aspirational Special Educational Needs Practice – Victoria Mackie (St Georges Special School – IOW) and Gemma Ince (Rowhill PRU).
